I don't know what I want to do in the future but I want to work in another country for a few reasons. First, I would get a chance to learn to communicate in another language. I have studied English for years, but I can't speak well because I've only lived in Japan. Second, I could learn more about different cultures. In Japan, we don't get to personally encounter different cultures of the world so often. Finally, I would get a chance to make friendships and other connections with people from different countries, which would be beneficial in the future. In sum, I want to work overseas one day. I'm looking forward to the experience. (115 words)

I want to travel overseas in the future but don't want to work in another country for several reasons. First, I don't think other countries are as safe as Japan. I often hear about violent crime and serious political problems in other countries. These are rare in Japan. And people in Japan don't have guns, like in the USA. Second, earning money overseas means having to deal with more complicated tax matters, and I don't think I can manage to do it. Finally, Japan frowns on dual nationality, so I probably wouldn't have full legal rights in a different country. In conclusion, I would prefer to travel overseas but not work overseas in the future.
